TO: Sponsor/Exhibitor/Vendor

FROM: Dell MacGregor, Chairperson, DeKalb County Soil and Water Conservation District

SUBJECT: 26th Annual Erosion and Sediment Control Seminar and Exposition

The DeKalb County Soil and Water Conservation District asks for your support as an exhibitor/vendor at its 26th Annual Erosion and Sediment Control Seminar and Exposition. The Expo will again be held at the Callanwolde Fine Arts Center, 980 Briarcliff Road in Atlanta, Georgia on Thursday, May 30, 2013, with registration beginning at 8:00 a.m.

The Agenda for this year's Expo again includes you, the vendors!! The first 4 vendors that submit their registration and fee will be given a short place on the program to address the audience about their company. Your presentations will be interspersed with those of the speakers.

This year has a focus on stormwater. Returning a floodplain to its natural functionality has been beautifully implemented in DeKalb County's Zonolite Park according to a plan developed by Susan Stainback of Sylvatica Studios. The area, a former brownfield, was recently cleaned up under EPA court order. Atlanta's new Post-Development Stormwater Management Ordinance as well as Georgia Tech's commitment to reducing its stormwater runoff by 50% back to the 1950's level will be discussed. NPDES Training Institute and GA Emergency Management Agency will keep us on top of proper planning.

Proceeds from the Expo will sponsor the attendance of DeKalb County High School students to the Natural Resources Conservation Workshop held at the Abraham Baldwin Agricultural College where they will compete for $17,000 of college scholarships.

PLEASE NOTE: Exhibits can only be set up on the morning of the Expo between 6:00 – 8:00 a.m. Please remember because of the historic nature and significance of Callanwolde, exhibits may not be hung or propped against the walls or columns. An 8 foot table for each display will be provided.

The cost of a display area is $250.00. A Reservation Form is enclosed.

Lunch will be provided for two of your representatives and they are welcome to sit in and participate in any of the sessions.

I hope your Company will help the District to broaden our audience with the knowledge of your products and services.
